BOLLINGEN

The Bollingen Lecture was named after the “confession of faith in stone,” as Jung called his tower—the house he built for himself with his own hands at Bollingen. Over the years, as he would begin to feel that the house was incomplete, he would add rooms and courtyards and even an upper story. Bollingen was always the place where Jung said he felt most deeply himself. Over 20 years ago Bob and Ann Murtha took a leap of faith when they founded a yet to be formed organization they named The C.G. Jung Association of Central Ohio. Now this has become one of the most respected Jungian-based organizations in the country and brings in outstanding, internationally known presenters. We are based in a lovely Victorian house in the Short North area of Columbus which also holds our Library, Bookstore, our highly regarded Gallery, as well as offices for several local Jungian analysts.

We rely on and deeply appreciate financial support for our valuable mission. Please make a tax-deductible donation, checks made out to JACO, and send to 59 W. 3rd Ave., Columbus, OH 43201.

Stephen Aizenstat

Stephen Aizenstat, PhD., is the founding president of Pacifica Graduate Institute. He is a clinical psychologist, a Marriage and Family Therapist, and a credentialed public school teacher and counselor. For more than 35 years he has explored the power of dreams with emphasis on depth psychology, dream research, the psyche/soma connection in dreamwork, and imaginal and archetypal psychology.

A major focus of Dr. Aizenstat's original research is a psychodynamic process of "tending the living image." His publications include Dream Tending, and Imagination and Medicine: The Future of Healing in an Age of Neuroscience.

Dr. Aizenstat has collaborated with many masters in the field, including Joseph Campbell, Marion Woodman, Robert Johnson and James Hillman, as well as native elders worldwide. He has conducted hundreds of dreamwork seminars throughout the United States, Europe and Asia. He lives with his wife and three children in Santa Barbara, California.

Dream Tending: Awakening the Living Image

Dream Tending is a life practice that healers, storytellers and poets have known by many different names for thousands of years. Passed on through the generations, the art of tending living dream images emerges in a culture when the call to see the inner and outer worlds in new ways becomes urgent.

We find ourselves in such a time now.

Vivifying images of the soul opens innate resources that sustain life's purpose.

This lecture and workshop will offer some practices of Dream Tending that amplify and animate the friendly and fascinatingly fiendish figures, landscapes, and emotions in dreams.

From Dr. Aizenstat:

The heartbeat of Dream Tending is the concept of the "Living Image". We explore ideas from archetypal dream psychology as well as my own thinking about phenomenological dream methodology. We spend time practicing phenomenological animation, an approach to tending the living dream image in the immediacy of its unfolding.

Here we recognize that dream images are alive. We experience them as embodied beings, engaged in their activity, not ours. We discover that in the landscape of the dream we are guests for a time in the living breathing ecology of psychic life. We come to acknowledge that psychic life is, by nature, alive and poetic – its language metaphorical, its rhythm musical.

The lecture and workshop will touch on some of the following:

Concepts

- the dreaming psyche is multi-dimensional
- dream images are alive
- dream images have body, presence and pulse

Skills

- phenomenological dream animation
- active imagination and the living image
- interacting with the embodied image

Considerations

- the problem of merging in dreamwork
- transference and countertransference dynamics

Nancy Lee served on The Jung Association's Board of Trustees in the early years of this organization. Nancy led numerous dream groups from the 1980s until her death in 2009 and was a highly regarded and insightful dream facilitator. This Bollingen program is dedicated in Nancy's name. She studied with Stephen Aizenstat over a period of time during the early stages of his work on Dream Tending. She regarded him highly as a teacher and for his exploration of how to do dreamwork in groups. A copy of Stephen's book Dream Tending will be placed in the Jung Association Library in Nancy Lee's memory.
