This three-session workshop will explore the tools of genealogy and the genogram to reveal the impact of family history, culture and relationships on our journeys of individuation. The workshop is intended for those with a working knowledge of Jungian psychology though a brief review of basic concepts will be offered.

Topics Include:

Week One: The Family Journey-Nuts and Bolts of Genealogical Data

Week Two: Family Dynamics-Unlived Lives, Complexes, Narratives, Individuation

Week Three: The Genogram-Mapping Family Patterns

Meeting Wednesdays for Three Sessions:

May 16, 23 & 30

7:00-8:30 PM

Pre-Registration Required

Jack Hendrickson

Jack Hendrickson traces his “Jung Roots” back to Centerpoint/Questpoint study group get-togethers at the home of Ann and Bob Murtha in the 1990’s. That group morphed into JACO. Jack was an early board member.

Richard Bates

Rich Bates began exploring Jungian psychology in college. “Bringing the unconscious into awareness transforms our lives.” Rich has presented a Saturday program on Ken Wilber. He has served nine years on the JACO Board.

Jay Young

Jay Young is on the Board of the C.G. Jung Association of Central Ohio and is a Licensed Professional Clinical Counselor. He is on the faculty at Ohio Dominican University and has been actively interested and studying Jung’s work since 1990.
